SUMMER JEWISHNESS

We are just entering upon the season when the inconvenience of being a Jew is brought home with fresh poignancy to a large section of our Hebraic population. The weather is getting warm. Summer has been officially installed. Tradition demands that the vacation rite be observed. And there are the birds, and the blue skies, and the fragrant foliage which excite in us a longing for the beauties of the open spaces. Many of us cannot resist the lure of nature and are eager to embark upon pilgrimages to rustic shrines. Then alas! comes the discovery that the holy places are closely guarded against our approach, and we are bidden to stay away. The suppressed prejudices and inhibited snobbishness of the office and shop are let loose in the sacred precincts of nature and they play the very devil with the tempers of the Philistines.

Shall we mention the fabled attractions of Muskoka? Railway folders have sung the charms of their paradise. Suppose a susceptible Jew was really taken in by the tales of the glories of Muskoka, and decided to venture forth to gaze upon its beauties with his own eyes. Assume that he is a man of refinement and culture; a graduate of a Canadian university; successful in his profession or business; knows the proper use of a salad fork and a mashie. He goes out by train or motor to one of the half-decent resorts in Muskoka. He duly finds himself in the lobby of the hotel in front of the clerk. Had he made reservations? To the clerk's regret the place is overfull. Impossible to accommodate him. And his eye catches a flicker of a smile on the clerk's face. He makes his way back. On the verandah, he espies the janitor of his building and his milkman's helper comfortably ensconced in rockers. He hears them titter. On the tennis court in front of the hotel the stenographer of the office next door to his ceases her play with the grocer's son for a moment to gaze at him. And a roll call of Jewish names seems to be on the lips of everyone around: "Cohen, Isaac, Levy, Jakie"—peculiar speculations as to his nomenclature. They are all superior to him. In the midst of nature restraints are thrown off, and primitive emotions are given free reign. He beats a retreat to Toronto. And in his mind there is a whirl of speculations about matters Jewish.

Or consider the situation on the islands near Toronto. Not long ago these islands were the resorts of the aristocracy of this city. The islands have unsurpassed natural advantages. They are bowers of beauty. They are easily accessible. And the elite of the city built their summer homes there and were happy. They were unmolested in their enjoyment of these wonderful retreats. Then came the invasion of the masses. The poor people of the city took notice of the fact that they had very delightful parks and picnic grounds close at hand. And they began to visit the islands in droves. The elite gave away before this invasion. One by one they moved out. The advent of the motor car was also a factor which made for the departure of the rich from the islands to more distant resorts. Now the cottages at the islands are occupied, for the most part, by members of the lower middle class, and the majority are rented out as rooming houses.

Let a Jew apply for a house at one of the islands. Again let him be a man of education and refinement. The boarding house keepers in the block will object to the presence of the Jew in the neighbourhood. The shipping clerks and office juniors who tenant the rooms will not tolerate the cultivated Semite in their midst. They don their white duck trousers and the sleeveless jersey, and behold they are the salt of the island. Only a short while ago the aristocracy of the city sniffed at them, and fled from contact with them. Now they bloat their chests and strut around as if they were sole heirs to the universe.

Some of the younger Jews who visit the islands are at times given to vociferousness. They are youthfully exuberant, and do not curb their spirits. Their conduct may not be of the type one expects at symphony orchestra concerts or prayer meetings. But, at the worst, they can compare quite favourably with the sort which compose a not inconsiderable portion of the younger non-Jewish set. Not all the young non-Jewish folks at the island are worshippers of nature who come there to compose odes to the lagoons. Need one be offensively sophisticated to observe on the late returning boats evidences of excessive thirsts too capably slaked?

The situation in Muskoka and the islands as described above is characteristic of the condition which obtains in most summer resorts and country clubs. People of taste who are ordinarily broad-minded seem to shirvel up into petty bigots when they leave their accustomed haunts. In their daily pursuits they are subjected to restraints and limitations and degradations. They are craving for a feeling of self-expansion. They are anxious to unleash their emotions and give them free play. In the atmosphere of holiday trifles they get an opportunity to indulge their whims. And it is flattering to their self-esteem to know that there are other people otherwise at least their equals, who must nevertheless in this one respect be in a position of inferiority to themselves. They delude themselves into the belief that they achieve great heights of self-realization by the simple process of stepping on the backs of others.

These petty humiliations hurt. They ramble. They offend one's sense of human dignity and human values. It is inconvenient to be a Jew. But does not one feel like stiffening one's back and assuming an attitude of contempt and pity for those who act so meanly? To feel that one is not wrong is compensation for inconvenience.—A. B. B.

No, Talk Wouldn't Change It!

No matter how loud we talked or what we said the quality of our merchandise would remain the same.
And it is just because we realized the basic truth long ago that we put such stress on quality. That is the reason we consider our job of BUYING the coal we sell the most important single thing about our business. That is the reason we consider our job of buying more important than our job of selling.
Buying right in the first place leaves nothing left to do but to tell you about it in a simple straightforward way—for no matter how loud we talked or what we said, the quality of our merchandise would remain the same.

HADASSAH ANNUAL MEETING

At the annual meeting of Montreal Hadassah, held Monday, June 18, in the Windsor Hotel, Rabbi J. L. Zlotnik, executive director of the Zionist Organization in Canada, was the guest speaker. He has just returned from a tour of Canada with Dr. Shmarya Levin, Palestinian writer and Zionist leader. This year the income of the Zionist and Hadassah organizations of Canada was the highest on record, exceeding by fifty thousand dollars the previous highest record for a single year, it was stated. The Zionist Organization will issue a detailed statement for the fiscal year in English, under the heading "The Canadian Zionists," and in Yiddish, "Unzer Arbeit."

Mrs. Louis Miller, president of Montreal Hadassah, was in the chair. Montreal Hadassah, under the chairmanship of Mrs. S. Wittes and Mrs. S. Jaffe, had contributed $10,000 to the recent campaign. Junior Montreal Hadassah had also pledged $10,000. The annual dollar shower for the Safed Hospital in Palestine, under the convenership of Mrs. M. H. Cohen, had been supported. Other funds were the Motza Convalescent Home, the Canadian Hadassah Girls' Agricultural School at Nahahal, the Higher Education Fund, the Palestinian Orphans' Fund, and the Babies' Home in Jerusalem. Besides these Hadassah had contributed to the Jewish National Fund, and the Keren Hayesod. Hadassah is also taking an active part in the raising of $20,000 for the new Lillian Freiman Building of the Girls' Agricultural School at Nahahal. The new building is being erected by Canadian Hadassah to honour Mrs. A. J. Freiman, Dominion president of the Hadassah Organization of Canada, to mark her twenty-fifth wedding anniversary in August.

The president announced that the annual bazaar will be held November 20 and 21. Speakers during the year included Dr. Benzion Mossensohn, of Tel Aviv; Mrs. A. J. Freiman, Leonard Stein, of London, England; Dr. G. Leiken, Rabbi J. L. Zlotnick, Dr. Shmarya Levin, of Tel Aviv; Mrs. David de Sola Pool; Mrs. Archibald Silverman, vice-president of the American Zionist and Hadassah Organization.

Mrs. B. Kahn presented the treasurer's report, and Mrs. S. Jaffe the report of the Jewish National Fund. The silver cup given by Senior Hadassah to the Junior Chapter making the most successful calls for the collecting of Jewish National Fund boxes was won by the Menorah Chapter, which also won the cup last year. Golden Book Certificates will be given to these three ladies who made most calls: Mrs. A. Poyaner, of North End Chapter, and Misses Frieda Presser, of Menorah Chapter, and Irene Leckner, of Deborah Chapter. Mrs. H. Singer, Dominion Secretary of Canadian Hadassah, presented to the retiring president, Mrs. Louis Miller, a Golden Book Certificate.

Presentations for services rendered were also made to Mesdames S. Jaffe, H. Singer, A. Gordon and M. Dezwireck. Officers of Montreal Hadassah Council for the next term are: Mrs. Louis Fitch, honorary president; Mesdames S. Kahn, Louis Miller, B. Perelmuter and L. Hertzig, honorary vice-presidents; Mrs. H. H. Livingstone, president; Mrs. E. G. Bernstein, Mrs. L. Klineberg, Mrs. S. Jaffe and Mrs. H. Singer, vice-presidents; Mrs. M. Garfinkle, secretary; Mrs. B. Kahn, treasurer; Mrs. J. Shulman, Jewish National Fund, chairman; Mrs. S. Wittes, Keren Hayesod, chairman; Mrs. M. H. Cohen, chairman of registration committee, and Mrs. L. Hertzig, chairman of organization committee.

Arnold Zweig has written a massive work in "Der Streit um Den Sergeanten Grischa" (Berlin: Fischer), a rich and acute psychological study of war, not as it affects diplomats or swanky patriots, but the common people who actually fight and die.

In reply to a question by a representative of the London Jewish Chronicle, M. Andre Maurois, the author of "Disraeli," said: "My grandfather was a Jew, and he married a Protestant. I was brought up without any religion whatever. I married a Roman Catholic, and my children are Roman Catholics. Personally, I have no religion, but to be candid, I live more as a Christian than as a Jew. My family has been French for a very long number of generations."

A family conference that lasted one minute

WHAT fun, those family conferences over the home they'd dreamed about. Innumerable investigations, comparison of notes, exciting decisions. The plumbing, for example, seemed to embody such a combination of mechanical detail, home convenience, and interior decoration. Alone, neither could have felt sure.

But Husband came home one evening from a consultation with the architect and plumbing contractor and said that everything seemed to point to Crane. Crane assured quality and dependability, would mean better resale value, and cost no more.

Wife had already visited the Crane Exhibit Rooms and returned hoping she could have such plumbing. The fixtures were so attractive and offered such interesting possibilities for charming bathroom arrangement. And all the little points of convenience had been planned so carefully to save her extra work.

A visit to the nearest Crane Exhibit Rooms, either alone or with your plumbing contractor, will prove interesting and profitable. You will not be asked to buy, since Crane plumbing and heating fixtures, valves, and fittings are sold only through responsible plumbing contractors.

Mail the coupon below and Crane will send you, without obligation, an interesting 23-page booklet, New Ideas for Bathrooms; containing illustrations, floor plans, wall elevations, color schemes, and full description of nine bathrooms.

ONTARIO MAKES RAPID STRIDES AS POPULAR SUMMER PLAYGROUND

A ready answer to the question "Where shall we go for our holidays?" is found to-day among the many attractive and pleasurable resorts that have made Ontario's highlands and lake districts the mecca of vacationists from all across the continent.

From the blue waters of Huron to the rock spattered streams of the Ottawa Valley, picturesque lakes and sparkling rivers vie with each other as popular resorts.

For the ardent fisherman the Kawartha Lakes, the Thirty Thousand Islands of Georgian Bay, the Maganatawan, Pickerel and French river districts and inland lakes of Algonquin Park offer the best of bass, maskinonge and trout fishing.

For some a holiday is not complete without a canoe trip. For these, Timagami, the Rideau Lakes and the upper streams and lakes of Algonquin Park offer a thousand delightful canoe trips with open-air camping and cooking thrown in for extra measure.

PINE AND SEA

A Well Advised Holiday Tonic from the Maritimes

Ocean plunges every day—golfing—motoring—boating—tramping. Something to do every minute. Pictou Lodge in Nova Scotia is a well recommended resort hotel. Plenty of other accommodation too—cosy farm homes—inexpensive woodland resorts—or delightful havens on the seashore.

Any Canadian National Agent will gladly give you information about the holiday possibilities of our Maritimes. Write or ask for illustrated literature.

KNOW THE JOY OF BRIGHT WATERS AND HAPPY LANDS

The Indians coming upon a chain of gleaming, shimmering lakes about ninety miles east of Toronto, named them "Kawartha"—"Bright waters and happy lands."

It is many years since the Indians gave the name "Kawartha" to these lakes; yet to-day, vacationists find it the source of happy holidays in the many resorts scattered along the shores.

If you are an ardent fisherman, cast your line in the larger lakes for bass and maskinonge; in the smaller lakes speckled trout provide good sport.

At any of the many good summer hotels there is every facility for canoeing, motor-boating, bathing, tennis, golf and all the other out-of-door recreations.

Illustrated folders with full information and map of "Kawartha Lakes" will be gladly given you by any Canadian National Railway's Agent.

The park, with its glorious pine woods, rocky hills, gleaming lakes and rivers, is a veritable mecca for those who like a "he-man" holiday. Every mile of its three thousand square miles is interesting and beautiful.

Reading Into It

By DAVID GRAUBART

1. That Hunt for Publicity

A characteristic news item recently appeared in the Jewish newspapers. It was a Jewish Telegraphic Agency despatch, to the effect that two Arabs were converted to Judaism in Palestine. What amused me when I perused this Palestinian report, was not the fact that our body politic and our body religious received two new members. Nor was I elated at the very idea that Judaism will have two proselytes. And I shall state my reasons, if you so desire. Statements should not be made dictatorily and dogmatically. They should be qualified and properly equipped with arguments and reasons. And the arguments should be logical, not of the type the Germans are wont to call 'schlagende argumenten'—arguments that are 'weighty,' in more than one sense of the word, or, perhaps, in less than one sense. Any way, these are my reasons for not having rejoiced at the news.

Why was I not glad to hear that our nation was enriched with two new members? Because these Arabs, prior to their conversion and admission to our fold—so I am assured by a prominent Palestinian journalist—were already very good Jews, because they belong to the Semitic race and converse in a language akin to Hebrew. According to that same writer, we have a majority in Palestine, simply because Arabs, Bedouins, et al., are good Jews, religious affiliations notwithstanding. There was no reason, therefore, for my elation from this point of view.

The very idea that Judaism gained two new proselytes did not make me joy-intoxicated, either, for the Talmudic opinion of converts is to me low. The Talmud does by no means consider proselytes an asset to Jews and Judaism, and in many an instance does it insist on this its conception. "Koshin gerim leyisroel Kesapahath"—proselytes are not very welcome to Israel—is the rabbinic formula. The Talmud also upbraided King John Hyrcanus for proselytizing the Idumeans.

So you see that my amusement did not come from these quarters. I was, however, much amused.

This is the interesting part of it. Here were two Gentiles, Arabs, living in uttermost obscurity. No one heard about them; no one mentioned their names. The wide world did not know of these two children of Allah.

But, lo and behold! The moment these two Orientals were initiated into the Jewish fold, they were heralded in with pomp and ceremony, and—were honoured with a special dispatch, courtesy the J.T.A. In other words, they launched out on their new career as Jews with a good dose of publicity . . . as if they had been told that henceforth their lives will be coloured by a new characteristic tendency—publicity.

Somehow, publicity hunting has become a true indoor sport with us. Publicitis—we are sick with it. Every move, every act, every least little thing, is accompanied by publicity. 'They' live in sheer obscurity. 'They' deliver scientific lectures, and no one records them. 'They' write good books and they go unnoticed. 'They' make inventions, and silently and quietly do they make their way and revolutionize the scientific world. Unsung and unheralded—'they'. "Nichts gesagt und nichts gesungen," as Heine sang bitterly.

'We,' however, are different. Every one knows of everything that we do and everything that we do not do; every one must know. Publicitis is the rage.

And this amused me, when I read of the Arab-proselytes. They received such a fine send off. Godspeed was said to them with pomp, and publicity, and J.T.A. despatches. And dashingly they made their entry into our body politic. "Be it known to all these presents."

2. The Best Christian

It was in the news several days ago. A Jewish student at the University of Wisconsin was awarded a prize for being the best Christian at the university. . . . It was found by the authorities that Mr. Behr was the best embodiment of Christian ethics and morals at the school.

We shall not discuss here what is meant by Christian ethics. Those in charge of affairs at the U. of W. most likely meant by this designation such qualities and attributes as straightforwardness, honesty, purity, and the like.

But what is interesting is that the best Christian has been found to be a Jew, or that a Jew has been found to be the best Christian. Anyway, seeing that the first Christian was a Jew, why should not here and there be found best Christians as Jews?

3. Index Rabbinicus

I chanced to receive a little pamphlet some time ago, wherein the author, writing in Hebrew, gives a list of books in Jewish literature that must not be read by pious Jews. A perusal of the list will show us that some of the books listed are rather innocent. Some of them are books of responsa, some of them very unassuming homiletical disquisitions, and others quite antiquated commentaries of the Bible. All in all, they are books that, to the knowledge of the present writer, do not smack of high-powered heresy. That pamphleteer ought to be psychoanalyzed, when he brands, particularly, one of those books as heretical. That book is a deeply religious treatise by one of our earlier Rabbonim; not of the present age.

SOCIAL CENTRE IN NORTHERN WOODS

Deep in the heart of the rugged north country, hidden by pine-topped hills and thick virgin forests, lies a chain of sparkling blue lakes known as Lake of Bays. Almost unknown to the outside world until a few years ago, these Lakes have become the summer playground of vacationists and tourists.

The Lake of Bays district is large enough to enjoy seclusion and a holiday of backwoods life—if that is desired. If pleasure, gayety and joyous companionship is your holiday goal, there are large luxurious hotels—ultra-modern—where golf, tennis, bowling, swimming may occupy your time—where music and dancing makes a perfect end to a perfect day.

Any Canadian National Railway's Agent will gladly give you illustrated literature and full information on the Lake of Bays. Ask him for a list of hotels and cottages from which to make your selection.

LOST FROM CIVILIZATION IN THREE MILLION ACRES OF FOREST

In the heart of the Timagami Forest Reserve, miles away from civilization, the vacationist who loves the crisp, fresh air of out-of-doors, and the rugged beauty of nature, will find a holiday very much to his liking.

Whether you take along your own tent or make use of the accommodation at the excellent tourist camps, this north country does wonders in health building for you. Tired nerves relax, days of paddling harden muscles and give you a health coat of tan.

Exploring and fishing trips, under the care of an experienced guide, are big features of your holiday—he takes you to his particular fishing grounds—away on hikes and portages that bring to you the thrill of the old voyageur.

Ask any Canadian National Railway's Agent for full information and literature on holidaying in Timagami. He will be glad to assist you in every way.

Evidently there is a desire to create an Index Rabbinicus, just as there is an Index Vaticanicus. As is well known, the Pope in Rome publishes annually a list of books that good Catholics should not read. This is the Papal Index, or Index Vaticanicus. Now we chanced to see an Index Rabbinicus.

But Indices should not frighten us. Maimonides is more known than those who were anxious to forbid the reading of his writings. This index rabbinicus is a mushroom index, and won't live on.

4. When a Spade is Not a Spade

A history of the Jews in Poland was recently written. In that book there appears a portrait of the Besht, R. Israel Baal Shem Tov, the founder of Chassidism. Under this portrait there appears the inscription to the effect that it was found in a private museum, subscribed: "Rabbi Israel Baal Shem Tov."

We happened to see an album of the great founders of the Mizrachi movement—the orthodox brand of Zionism—published by the American organization in New York. It contained very fine portraits of Mizrachi leaders, and among them there was a picture of Rabbi Elijah Gutmacher, of Greiditz, Prussia, one of the foremost theoreticians of the Mizrachi idea. The picture was the same as that of R. Israel Baal Shem Tov in that history of Polish Jews. Now, who is who?

Of course it was the true picture of the Rabbi of Greiditz. The expression is not that of a mystic, but the serene face of a Prussian rabbi. Indeed, it is not the picture of the Besht, as one may prove from other sources. Clearly, there was a misunderstanding here.

Another Jewish historian once printed a picture of the Besht—not the one we have just made reference to—and somewhat later a Hebrew critic wrote that that was the picture of a Polish count, wrongly taken for the likeness of the great Jewish mystic.

And now the call is being broadcast: Wanted: a picture of R. Israel Baal Shem Tov.

By order of the Board,

Helped Many Others to Succeed

With only five cents to his name, Jack Perkins came to Toronto eighteen years ago. He died May 6, at the age of forty-two, worth upwards of a quarter of a million dollars. He could have been worth much more, it is said, but preferred to give it away, either as cash to charities or as time and assistance to young men just starting out in life.

In between the five-cent piece, which was spent for peanuts in lieu of a more substantial meal, and about three hundred thousand dollar estate disposed of in his will, lies a series of most remarkable incidents. They are remarkable for their lack of spectacular features, for the unobtrusive manner of their happening.

The late Mr. Perkins whose original name was Lipson, was born in Europe and with his family emigrated to the United States. There he learned the garment-making trade and worked at it until he was twenty-four years of age. Then he decided to try Canada. What chance led him to Toronto, none of his friends seem to know, but he arrived in 1910 with five cents, a hunger, a lot of knowledge about his work and enough energy to use it.

Just when he had changed his name, no one seems to know either. The remainder of his family retained the original name and he never endeavoured to divorce his interests from those of the Jewish people. As soon as he got his bearings, before the nickel's worth of peanuts had been consumed, he got a job as examiner with the Dominion Cloak Co. That is, he passed upon the work turned out by the operators. He was only about six months with that job when he moved. He went to work for L. Korn, who was making waists and skirts for women. His aptitude as a plant manager and organizer soon won him recognition and Mr. Korn allowed him to experiment in the making of dresses. The experiment was successful from the first, and Mr. Perkins stayed with the Korn concern for a year and a half.

By that time he considered he had had enough experience to make a go of it on his own. He had saved a little capital and he now demonstrated his talent for organizing. He interested Mr. Landsberg in a proposal to start the Alco Dress Company. For three months they worked together, Mr. Landsberg supplying most of the capital. At the end of that period, Mr. Landsberg could not see his way clear to go on and retired. With the earnings of the first three months, Mr. Perkins carried on alone and was still the active head of the company when he died suddenly of pleuro-pneumonia after four days' illness at his home, 10 Burnside Avenue.

That is the outline of his business career in Toronto. There remains only to speak of his hobbies. His vocation was the garment manufacturing trade. His avocation was starting others off in it in safety. The latter was his only hobby, and in later years he spent a great deal of time at it. He found his recreation in that way, and it is said of him he never took a vacation.

About the first of December last he formed a firm of mining stock brokers known as Perkins and McDonald, but was on the point of retiring from that business when he died. His friends state that while he readily mastered the technique of that business, he found that he did not like it. It was too "hard boiled," he is quoted as having said.

Mr. Perkins was a member of Palestine Lodge, A.F. & A.M., the Primrose Club, of which he was a board member since it was formed; Holy Blossom Synagogue, Canadian Club and C.M.A., and was one of the most active workers and a trustee in the Federation of Jewish Charities. He is survived by his widow, his mother in Ottawa, and two brothers.

His estate includes: life insurance, $119,604; mortgages, $27,702; business assets, $25,300; stocks, $13,107; promissory notes, $5,000; household effects, $1,200.

His estate, the real value of which is not estimated, is left mainly to his wife and relatives and a number of charities. The Federation of Jewish Charities gets $5,000 in five annual instalments; the Hospital for Sick Children, $1,000 and the Mount Sinai Hospital, $1,000.

Several trust funds are to be established by the will. One will provides an income for his sister, Mrs. A. Sands, New York. Interest from a $10,000 fund goes to another sister, Mrs. Reibstein. Still another fund of $25,000 will provide an income for his mother, Mrs. Meyer Lipson, of Ottawa, and in addition to all his personal and household effects, furniture, etc., his widow will have the income from trust fund of $50,000. She also receives $25,000 and a goodly proportion of the life insurance. The residue of the estate passes to Meyer Lipson, of Ottawa, who is an executor and who also has a bequest of $25,000. Mrs. Jennie Cohen gets $10,000. Mrs. Rose Gordon, $20,000, and ten nephews and nieces, Estelle, Evelyn and Louis Sands, of New York, and Willie and Harry Reibstein, Ida Lesser, Hymen, Bennie, Milton and Elliot Cohen, each receive $3,000. Ben Klein gets $1,000.

The Jewish artist, Leopold Gottlieb, has been commissioned on the recommendation of the French Minister of Public Works, to paint portraits of many leading French statesmen, soldiers and scholars, including Briand, Clemenceau, Herriot, Poincare, Henri Bergson and Marshal Foch.

Sholom Schwarzbard, who was recently refused admittance into Palestine, settled on a small farm in an obscure corner of France, where he expects to prepare himself for agricultural life, hoping that at some future time he may be granted permission to enter Palestine.

Professor Franz Oppenheimer, one of the most noted German sociologists and famous as a Zionist leader, is delivering a course of lectures at the London School of Economics of the University of London.

Nathan Novick, one of the most promising of the younger American composers whose works have been performed at the New York Stadium and elsewhere, sailed for Paris recently.

"Sometimes when people censure me,
I tell them without rancour
That for what it cost me to be free
I might have had an anchor."

With the passage of the Jenkins immigration bill, immigration legislation in the United States will take on a more humane colour. This bill for uniting separated families exempts from the quota unmarried children under age and the husbands of American citizens. Such persons will be given preference over all other immigrants up to fifty per cent. of each quota. Those given preference in the other fifty per cent. of the quota are parents of American citizens over twenty-one, along with skilled agriculturists, their wives and their children under eighteen. Within the unexhausted portion of this fifty per cent. of each quota the wives and children of aliens will be admitted. These provisions mean that immigration practically will be cut off from countries having small quotas until the separated families have been benefited as the bill provides. This is therefore considered only part of a loaf. It would have been better from the Jewish point of view had the classes provided for been exempt from the quota instead of being included in it. But this is better by far than nothing. Perhaps, too, it may open the way for better legislation some other day.

The New York Board of Trade and Transportation recently heard Joseph P. Day, a real estate operator, say that New York City has grown more in the last twenty-five years than it grew in a century before that due to the influence of the Russian Jew in business. In the seven major tribal invasions mentioned by Mr. Day were the Indians, the Dutch, the Anglo-Saxons, Germans, the Irish, the Italians and the Russian-Jewish. In the time of the latter New York City has seen its stupendous expansion and greatest commercial activity. When Canada looks across the border the lesson it learns from the United States is that immigration should be cut down. Canada is too young to apply it. Canadian cities should hear that the Russian-Jews are credited with the growth of New York. That is a lesson to learn and apply now for the greater influence and, prosperity of the Canada of the future.

There might be more Jewish agriculturists in the United States were it not so difficult for them to find wives. The sons of Jewish farmers cannot remain on farms already established and waiting for them if Jewish girls don't want to marry farmers. Do they? A farmer's wife must be a strong, lusty, strapping girl made for hard work and interested in housekeeping, home-building, and able to resist the lures that lie in industrial centres and sometimes lie and lie and lie. Such Jewish girls evidently do not grow on trees. The kind that do grow on trees marry with less preparation for it than they need when they apply for work as a file clerk or when they are introduced into society as ready for the trials and tribulations of the marriage market. They want a home that is at least very comfortable and prefer it with a servant of some sort. Their conversation and ideas of partnership show how largely magazine advertising, cheap stories, the false standards of the day and the many influences which make for ostentation, low thinking, rapid living and keeping up with the Joneses all have played in their general education. It looks as though chances for the American-born farmer to remain on the farm are small unless somewhere there are nice Jewish girls longing for the simple life. This column has never given advice to the love-lorn (let it be said to its credit), even when opportunity has offered, but it is willing to help love's young dream along if it can. To any girl who wants it this column will give the name and address of a certain gentleman in touch with American farmers, some of them most likely tall, bronzed and handsome, rich, kind, magnetic, and waiting. Nu?

The average Jewish gentleman is very amusing when he speaks indulgently of the doings of the ladies at their auxiliary, chapter, or bridge club meetings, and how it all concerns only talk and tea to begin with. He goes to synagogue meetings, communal and lodge meetings but it is all dignified, serious stuff. If there is a touch of the ridiculous and some hocus-pocus about the ladies' meetings and their talk there it is nothing less than real purpose and high ideals that surround his meetings. He is still one of the lords of creation, of course, being a man, but the ladies are edging in on his territory and even attend synagogue conventions and hear it all. There was a time when he could stick out his chest, go down to the synagogue for a committee meeting, talk a lot, satisfy his ego, and the women would never find out how foolish he had sounded. He could even tell how he had held his hearers glued to their seats by his ideas and superlative eloquence and the women would believe it, being without access to the facts. But the truth is coming out as it will. At the recent convention of the United Synagogue of America it was suggested that young people should be elected to the directorates of synagogues as well as their elders in order to make them feel part of the system. But Rabbi Elias Margolis, of Mount Vernon, N.Y., thought it would be better if they stayed away. He said: "To elect young people on the boards of our congregations would prove an excellent method for driving them away from the synagogue and Judaism altogether. The petty politics played by many of our directors and the ridiculous discussions which take place at their meetings would disillusion our young people about that beautiful ideal of Judaism which the rabbis are trying to hold out to them."

Ridiculous discussions! So that's the way it really is. f.f.c.

SABBATH OBSERVANCE IN PALESTINE

The question whether a Palestine municipality, even though composed mainly of Jews, can enforce Sabbath observance has been settled by the Supreme Court of the land in the negative. The test case was of a Jewish shopkeeper in Tel Aviv, who had his store open on the Sabbath, against the rule adopted by the municipality, and was fined to pay $10. The case was then taken to the Supreme Court, on the plea that it was against the mandate for any municipality to enforce religious observances of any part of the population. The Attorney-General, Mr. Norman Bentwich, argued that since Tel Aviv was a purely Jewish settlement, it had the right to make Sabbath observance legally binding on all its inhabitants. Since, however, the law established a form of discrimination among the various members of the community, the Supreme Court decided that the ordinance was illegally made and freed the Jewish storekeeper from the fine imposed upon him. It is possible that the Palestine Government will carry the case to the Privy Council in London.

NORTHERN ONTARIO CANADA

Northern Ontario, now open for settlement at fifty cents per acre, contains millions of acres of the finest agricultural land in the world. Its resources in lumber, minerals, water power, fish, game and scenery are immense. The land calls for men to cultivate it, and in return will give health, comfort and prosperity.

What settlers say of the soil, climate, farming and forest life, is told in a most attractive booklet issued under the direction of the Honourable John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario. Full instructions in regards to acquiring a title to these rich agricultural lands are also given.

Scientifically Designed Balloon Tire Tread

The Firestone tread was not designed with large, massive projections for appearance or to make plausible sales argument. On the contrary, the projections of the cross-and-square tread are small and the rider strips narrow, permitting the tread to yield to irregularities and cling to the road, giving the greatest non-skid surface.

By means of the exclusive Firestone Gum-Dipping process every fibre of every cord is saturated and insulated with rubber, to withstand the extra flexing of the Firestone tread.

If you want the economy, comfort and safety of Gum-Dipped Tires—see the nearest Firestone Dealer.

"We offer great 'selectivity'"

This new radio term "selectivity" embodies one of the most pleasing features of this laundry. Five different ways of doing such an apparently simple thing as family wash are offered our customers. This enables housewives to select as much or as little help as they feel they need and pay accordingly. Our rates, of course, as anyone will tell you, are extremely low—much less, in fact, than home methods. Let us tell you more in detail. Phone and a good refrigerator keep foods at their best

THERE is no other refrigerant like ICE. You can depend upon it. In a good refrigerator it maintains a temperature cold enough to keep foods fresh, dry enough to prevent mold and moist enough to retard the drying out of meat, cheese, butter and fruit.

It is nature's way of preserving the delicious juices and precious, elusive flavors of food.

It is important to have a good refrigerator. This does not necessarily mean an expensive model. You can get a thoroughly good one, correctly designed, tightly constructed and well insulated, at moderate cost. If kept in good order and properly handled, it cannot fail to give the most satisfactory results.
